

Men living on a unit of space. This is clear from the distribution of signs, without doing a division :

The more persons are massed together, the more signs there are on the unit of space. That is for the eye almost as simple as the comparison of the men by themselves (see Pictures 32 and 5).

Picture 32 makes a division between towns of the U.S.A. and England on the one side, and towns of other countries in Europe on the other side, because these two groups have different forms of housing.
